

SAGA UNDERGRADUATE AWARD

The first two SAGA Undergraduate Award Scholarships were awarded at the ASA Bean Feed last fall. The recipients are Amanda Loeffen and Brooklyn Bourgeois, both 4th year Animal BioScience majors.

Amanda Loeffen, SAGA Scholarship recipient, with President Eric

The Scholarship is another means by which our alumni association remains involved in the College and supports the students. It also increases awareness among the students of SAGA and will hopefully encourage them to make it an important part of their post-graduate and professional lives.

The scholarships are open to continuing degree and diploma students in the College of Agriculture and Bioresources. As well as scholastic standing, involvement within the local community, the college and university, and the wider agricultural industry is an important selection criterion.

The Award is funded completely by ongoing annual donations from Ag grads and other supportive individuals. The response to the Award has been quite positive. The committee would like to thank SAGA members for their generous support.

Tax deductible contributions can now be made to the Award Fund managed by the University of Saskatchewan. There are no overhead charges so 100% goes into the Fund. The University will issue tax receipts.

It is easy to contribute:

On-line go to: <https://donate.usask.ca/online/agbio.php> Select SAGA Undergraduate Award from the "Select Gift Designation" drop down menu and complete the online pledge form.

By cheque payable to: University of Saskatchewan. Note on memo line: SAGA Undergraduate Award.
Mail to: College of Agriculture and Bioresources, Development Office, 51 Campus Drive, Saskatoon,
SK S7N 5A8

By telephone: through a central line operated by the University at either of these numbers:

(306) 956 5186

Toll-free: 1-800-699-1907

Please consider contributing to the SAGA Undergraduate Award Fund. It is a great way to support our College and the agriculture industry.